

Scattered on Cloth

Cat Connor Unveils Second Book in Captivating Trilogy: Scattered on Cloth

Prepare to be spellbound as Cat Connor invites readers back into the enchanting world of the Spellbound Bookshop with the release of Scattered on Cloth, the second installment of the highly anticipated 'Fates Entwined: Spellbound Bookshop Trilogy.' Following the tale of the middle sister, Poppy McClelland, this new release promises a blend of mystery, ambition, and the warmth of sisterhood.

In Scattered on Cloth, Poppy McClelland is a spirited and determined character who has always danced to the rhythm of her own drum. While she treasures her role in the family-run Spellbound Bookshop alongside her sisters, Violet and Lily, a sweeter dream has been simmering in her heart—her very own fudge shop. Poppy's passion for crafting delectable fudge is more than just a hobby; it's a calling that fills her with unparalleled joy and satisfaction.

After years of meticulous planning and saving, Poppy finally discovers the perfect spot for her dream shop, conveniently located just steps away from the family bookstore. At last, everything seems to fall into place, setting the stage for her confectionery aspirations to come to life. However, just as Poppy stands on the verge of realizing her dream, she stumbles upon an unexpected and thrilling secret that she must keep even from her beloved sisters. This newfound mystery poses a significant challenge, one that could potentially unravel her business plans, her family bonds, and the life she's diligently built.

As readers delve into Poppy's journey, they will experience a rich tapestry of emotions, from the tension of secrecy to the warmth of familial love. Cat Connor masterfully weaves a narrative that balances Poppy's personal ambitions with the complexities of the secrets she must guard. The story explores the delicate interplay between dreams and responsibilities, making Scattered on Cloth a resonant tale for anyone who has ever dared to chase their heart's true desire.

Fans of the Spellbound Bookshop series and newcomers alike can look forward to immersing themselves in this compelling continuation of the McClelland sisters' saga. Scattered on Cloth will be available on October 31st, just in time for readers to cozy up with a captivating story as the autumn leaves begin to fall.

Secure your copy through this universal link: books2read.com/scatteredoncloth

Don't miss the chance to embark on this enchanting journey with Poppy and discover the magic that awaits within the pages of Scattered on Cloth.