By Cat Connor

Release date: 17 April 2026

INTRODUCTION

New Zealand author Cat Connor returns with [Foxtrot Foxtrot Sierra], the seventh novel in her popular Veronica Tracey Spy/PI series. Set against the backdrop of rising geopolitical tension in the Pacific, the novel blends sharp character-driven storytelling with modern espionage, exploring what happens when global power struggles reach unexpectedly close to home. Fast-paced, intelligent, and grounded in real-world concerns, the book continues Connor's reputation for smart thrillers with a distinctly Kiwi voice.

BOOK OVERVIEW

When a routine intelligence job in San Francisco ends with a dying man and a stolen data chip, covert operative Veronica Tracey is drawn into a shadow war stretching from Wellington to the Pacific Islands. What begins as a quiet investigation into suspicious meetings and missing files escalates into a high-stakes race involving foreign agents, stolen military technology, and a looming threat to regional security.

As trusted allies become suspects and even family members are pulled into the danger, Ronnie must uncover the truth before an invisible enemy executes a plan that could shift the balance of power.

[Foxtrot Foxtrot Sierra] delivers smart action, dry humour, and relentless suspense, grounded in contemporary geopolitics and character-driven storytelling.
